

Inspired by the Life and Works of Edith Sitwell

Written and Performed by Jules Craig
Directed by Sian Webber
Set Design by Katherine Richards

The rich and eccentric story of Juliet who attempts to put on a play about her heroines, but discovers that telling the tales of others has its pitfalls, particularly when the subjects themselves turn up, and force her to face some home truths. A funny, fast paced and honest one-woman show with a cast of three, all vying for the role of leading lady.

'This show...has a huge heart.' Helen Jewell, The Old Market, Brighton
'Intense, fast-paced and, by moments, funny and poignant.' Kate Evans, Writer
'One-person shows about historical characters are a staple of fringe theatre. But Craig's comic new play does something at once shrewder and warmer with the genre.'
Bella Todd, The Stage
